

INDEX

Q. No.	Question	Page No.
1.	Relational Schema: Sailors (sid , sname, rating, date_of_birth) Boats (bid , bname, color) Reserves (sid , bid , date)
1.1	Find Sailors who've reserved atleast 1 boat.	8
1.2	Find sid's of Sailors who have reserved a red or a green boat.	9
1.3	Find sid's of Sailors who've reserved a red and a green boat.	10
1.4	Find sid's of Sailors who've not reserved a boat.	11
1.5	Names of Sailors who've reserved boat #103.	11
1.6	Find Sailors whose rating is greater than that of some sailor called Horatio.	12
1.7	Find sailors who've reserved all boats	12
1.8	Find the name and age of the oldest sailor	13
1.9	Find the age of the youngest sailor, for each rating with atleast 2 such sailors	14
1.10	Find those ratings for which the average age is the minimum over all ratings.	14
1.11	To count sailors with voting age.	15
2.	Relational Schema: Customer_1 (cust_num , cust_lname, cust_fname, cust_balance) Customer_2 (cust_num , cust_lname, cust_fname, cust_balance) Product (prod_num , prod_name, price) Vendor (vendor_id , location, vendor_name, address) Invoice_1 (inv_num , prod_num, units_sold, cust_num, inv_date, inv_amount, vendor_id)
2.1	Write the query that will generate a combined list of customers to include the duplicate customer records.	23
2.2	Write the query that will show only the duplicate customer records.	24
2.3	Write the query that will generate only the records that are unique to the Customer_2 table.	24
2.4	Write the query that will show the invoice number, the average invoice amount, and the difference between the average invoice amount and the actual invoice amount.	25

Q. No.	Question	Page No.
2.5	Modify the CUSTOMER table to include 2 new attributes: cust_dob and cust_age. Customer 1000 was born on March 15,1969 and Customer 1001 was born on December 22, 1977.	26
2.6	Assuming that the CUSTOMER table contains a cust_age attribute, write the query to update the values in this attribute.	27
2.7	Write the trigger to update the cust_balance in the CUSTOMER table when a new invoice record is entered. (Assume that the sale is a credit sale.)	28
2.8	Find all products with a price greater than or equal to the average product price.	30
2.9	List all customers who have purchased any kind of 'hammer' or 'saw'.	31
2.10	List all products with the total quantity sold greater than the average quantity sold.	32
2.11	List all products that have product cost that is greater than all individual product costs for products provided by vendors from Florida.	33
2.12	List all products that have product cost that is greater than any individual product costs for products provided by vendors from Florida.	34
2.13	Produce a list of all customers who have purchased the products: 13-Q2/P2 and 23109-H.	35
2.14	Produce a listing of product code, product price, average price, and the difference between product's price and average product's price.	36
2.15	Produce a listing of those products in which the units sold for each product is greater than the average units sold for that product.	37
3.	Relational Schema: Location (location_id , regional_group) Department (department_id , name, location_id) Job (job_id , function) Employee (employee_id , last_name, first_name, middle_name, job_id, manager_id, hire_date, salary) Works_in (employee_id , department_id , since)
3.1	List all the employees who are working in department 10 and draw out salary more than 3500	43
3.2	How many employees who joined in March 1985.	44
3.3	Which is the department id having greater than or equal to 3 employees joined in April 1985.	45